THE PROGRESS.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

"Heavier Than Air" Flying Machines

Now the Goal of Inventors. Prizes aggregating many thousands of dollars for the production of a flying machine of the "beavier than air" va riety, offered by English and French enthusiasts, have caused great activity among would be inventors, and some of the most prominent aeronautic experts predict that the year just begun will be marked by remarkable adrances in the science and practice of aerial flight. To the gasoline engine and to the extraordinary mechanical progress made in automobilism is due the hope that something definite and worthy may be achieved by those who seek to solve the problem of aerial trav-has little practical value save as an exciting form of sport and for purposes of observation in calm weather. La anything like a stiff breeze it is the sport of the winds and quite useless from a practical point of view. Bette: things are said of the cigar shaped contrivances utilizing both the gas bag and the gasoline engine. Six years ago Santos-Dumont was able to steer an airship of this kind around the Elifel tower, running with and against the wind. Since that time hundreds of similar steerable balloons have been built in France until today they are near'y as common as the spherical gas bag. Nevertheless it is realized that these are for from representing a solution of the problem of practical navigation of the air. They have, in fact, only stimulated the desire for something that will represent a radical improvement, such as the successful "heavier than air" vessel would be The latter would mean, naturally, a dirigible vessel which could be driven in any kind of weather and in any desired direction. A fortune in prizes already awaits the inventor of such a vessel, to say nothing of the monetary return in a business way. Two prizes of $50,000 each, one in England, the other in France, await the inventor of the successful aeroplane

way of producing a perfectly dirigible alrship are immense because of the number of contingencies that must be provided for in traveling through such a mobile and treacherous element as the air. Machinery that can be depended on not to fail and precipitate the "heavier than air" machine to the earth is the most necessary qualification, but this can be provided, it is known, if the method of propulsion can be invented. The screw propeller Idea is by no means ideal because of its great bulk, its poor lifting power and its enormous waste of energy. A flapping propeller, moving from side to side, seems to give promise, but many sound thinkers favor an approximation to the bird method of flight, though serious difficulties lie in the way of converting circular motion derived from a motor into the complicated and various motions performed by the wings of a bird. Even if such motion could be approximated by mechanical means great skill would be required in provided against.

Toy models working after the man ner of a bird's wings have successfully months ago. I am now as well as a traveled a few yards, but have falled man can be, as sound and hearty as of success when enlarged to any extent. That the air is a region in which man can travel has been proved. can sail or fly through it by the aid of mechanical power has also been dem onstrated, but many years are likely to elapse before any practical method of aerial navigation can be attained. hurriedly, but that a solution will come eventually is now almost a settled conyiction with students of peronautics, and the incentives offered abroad within the past few mouths give the hope that great progress, if not actual achievement, will mark the current year .- New York Sun.

London Theater Cleaners. The housemaids, or, in theatrical lan guage, the cleaners of a theater, if an average were taken of London the aters, would number a dozen. Every day the whole of the auditorium has to be swept and dusted, and the ac tors' dressing rooms cleaned and made ready for their occupation at night. The work is under the superintendence of a housekeeper, who gets a salary of at least £3 a week, while each cleaner gets about £1. There are many ladies' maids to each theater who are known as dressers. To each dressing room there is at least one, and the pay is the same throughout the whole company-2 shillings for each performance, exclusive of the tips.-London Leader.

To Help the Divers.

The difficulty a diver experiences in lifting weights beneath the water is partly overcome by a new Italian invention, which has been formally adopted by that government. The mechanism is a diving suit, the artificial arms of which are worked from the inside by the wearer. The leverage thus secured enables the diver to lift objects heavier than he could otherwise handle. In addition to this improvement over the old method, a high power electric light that will penetrate the water for some distance is placed in the belmet.

Whenever it is known that Dr. Kutchin is stopping at a place, crowds gather to manife him, and it is not to be wondered at when it is remembered that in diagnosing a sease he never asks a question, but describes the different discusses better than the sick can emselvee. It is a wonderful gift for anyone to possess, and Dr. Kutchin's diagnostic wers have created wonder throughout the country.

He adopted the following plan, which is peculiar to the large hospitals, and is not and never us been the practice of country doctors, viz: he carefully notes the syntoms of the patient, and certains the condition of the internal organs, all of which he carefully recurs in his register r future reference. In this way he ascertains the true nature of the discusse and its cause, hen sick people consult him he readily tells them whether he can cure or help them, or whether eye are beyond hope.

A LIFE OF EXPERIENCE. The Doctor has had a whole life of study and experience in his profession, and enjoy trantages which fall to the lot of but few! After attending his Full Courses in the Medica classes, and graduating with the highest honors, he was not content to stop there, but as since attended other Colleges, and several times reviewed the whole profession; has als aveled extensively for the purpose of improvement, having visited the best Medicai Colleges outlies. LATEST DISCOVERIES AND IMPROVEMENTS. Dr. Kutchin has received the most approved instruction in Analytical and Microscopic Examinations of the Blood, Urine, etc., which are now considered indispensible to a correlingnosis in many diseases. There are many diseases which physiciaus in common practice not usually treat, and are, therefore, solidon prepared with necessary and costly out it to examinorrecity, or treat with success; such cases, therefore, would do well to call at once and less held true condition, and whether the doors of Hope are yet open, or forever closed against the FACTS FOR MEN OF ALL ACES. By reason of false medesty the youth of our land are kept in ignorance of the ruinous results which certain solitary indiscreet practices produce. These vices when persisted in scentrially undermine the constitution inducing nervous debility and premature decay. By. Kutchin has for many years enjoyed the distinction of being the meat successful and celebrated specialist for the treatment and cure of these affections. You may consult him with complete confidence. Of all the maladies that afflict mankind there is probably none about which physicians in general practice know so little.

DELAY IS DANCEROUS. Many diseases are so deceptive that hundreds of persons have them before they even suspect it. They know they are not well, but are perfectly ignorant of the deadly fangs which are fastening upon them, and must, sooner or later, certainly destroy them, unless rescued by a skillful hand.
